Arabian Nights.

Kussel, H. Bethell, as Arthur Hummingtop, played the part of a much married man in fine shape. His wife, Marion P. Bradbury, had gone away for a visit and Hummingtop, left in the care of his mother-in-law, G. Imogene Hunt, happened to read the "Arabian Nights," which had its effects on his impressionable nature. The night before his wife's return he was strolling in the park, where he chanced to meet a young lady, Rosa Columbia, Esther Pike, who was nearly freezing and in feeble condition, so he wrapped his handkerchief about her neck and escorted her home forgetting to recover his handkerchief. The next morning he received a letter from her saying she was coming to visit the lost article, having found his name and address on it. Consternation prevailed when she arrived, determined to remain awhile, making herself much at home. At last his mother-in-law appeared and fearing suspicion introduced her as his niece, thus lodging her safely in the house. Soon Daisy Matfield, Frances G. Andrews, the real niece, appeared, to cover up the first story, sent her to the hotel.

In the midst of afflictions came a friend, Ralph Ormerod, Albert R. Bartlett, and before Hummingtop knew it he had told him his troubles, and to his mother-in-law, said Ralph was a bachelor, a married man and a widower, so as to get rid of Rosa's letter, causing all kinds of trouble. At last on the arrival of Hummingtop's wife, the truth of the situation, only not to be believed, but finally the situation was cleared and Joshua Gillibrand, Paul I. Seay took Rosa for his wife.

Hummingtop's mother, Miss Hunt was right on her job, looking out for her daughter's husband and what she did not see she surmised and complicated the many serious situations.

Dobson, Hummingtop's man-servant, Eugene Descoteau, was a true and trusted servant, always on the job.

The maid servant was Doris E. Sheppard who busied herself about the premises filling in at crucial points.

The young people took their parts in fine shape and were applauded enthusiastically at various points in the play.

Variety Shower.

A shower was given Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Maxim in honor of Bessie Haggett of South Paris.

As she entered the hall she was showered with confetti by her friends, then all gathered in the living room, which was decorated with hearts and red ribbons.

At the end of each were found packages from the friends. Bessie revealed many beautiful and useful gifts, including linen, books, silver, china, also jokes, which caused much merriment. Kempie presided during the evening.

All were invited into the dining room; this was also decorated with hearts. In the center of the table was a large bouquet of red carnations. At each plate were favors, also place-cards in heart shape. These were read, written in white giving the name of the guest and date of the event. The room was lighted by red candles, one at each end of the table.

Those present were Mrs. Harriet Porter, Mrs. Emma Buden, Mrs. Edna Norworthy, Mrs. Grace Gushman, Mrs. Laura Maxin, Mrs. Walter Stearns, Mrs. Katherine Bradbury, Jennie Baker, Mercey Millett, Myra Haggett and Annie Hamlin.

Colonial Supper.

The Ladies of the Second Congregational church served a Colonial supper at the dining hall, Wednesday evening. The supper included baked beans, brown bread, salads, pies, cakes and Indian pudding. The dining tables were lighted by candles in ornate lanterns. A number of various kinds, especially interesting to the seekers of antiques. These lights were assisted somewhat by an occasional electric light. There about 130 who partook of the excellent supper.

An interesting feature were the old fashioned costumes which were in evidence at a party of 75 years ago, who had not seen the intervening changes of styles would have felt "at home."

Old fashioned wedding dresses, polonaises, calashes, poke bonnets, hoop skirts, kerchiefs, shawls, all kinds of jewelry, swallow tailed coats and many others helped to make up the costumes.

After the supper an "Old Folks" concert was given in the vestry. The program included:

IS IT RHEUMATISM?

Aren't You Really On the Wrong Track?

A good share of so-called rheumatism is caused by weak kidneys. When the kidneys fail to clear the blood of uric acid, the acid irritates the delicate nerves. Torturing pains dart through the affected part whenever it is moved. By strengthening the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills have proven their worth in thousands of so-called rheumatic cases, lumbago, sciatica, gravel and urinary disorders. Doan's are well-known in Norway and warmly recommended by Norway people. Read this Norway case:

M. M. Kilgore, Danforth St., Norway, says: "I had backache and rheumatic pains for more than a year. My kidneys were the cause of the trouble. Sometimes I was so lame I could hardly stand. I did not rest much and was feeling miserable when I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got them at Stone's Drug Store and a few boxes cured me."

Three years later, Mr. Kilgore said: "I have never had the slightest return of kidney trouble since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

Proven Swamp-Root Aids Weak Kidneys

The symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition. The kidneys seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney troubles. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which soon heals and strengthens the kidneys is a splendid kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who use it. A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Better get a bottle from your nearest drug store, and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Norway Weekly Oxford Co. Advertiser.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness cured (by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

OXFORD.

Pythian Sisters of Oxford held Washington Birthday Social Wednesday evening after their regular meeting. Craigie Temple held a very pleasant old time social and entertainment to many invited guests.

The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion with red, white and blue, also many flags of various sizes. The tables for refreshments were lighted wholly with candles during the supper hour. The la-ohhhErsPe... shrd hrdh shrdl dchdwf dies were all dressed in very old costumes, some 25, 50, and one gown over 100 years old. With their quaint head-dressing, it made a very pleasing effect to witness the picture by candle light. After the refreshments, the tables were quickly removed and the following program listened to:

One little girl read "The Early Life of Lincoln," and then ten children gave an exercise about Washington and our country and all sang "America."

Mrs. Denning and Mr. Jones sang "We Shall Meet But We Shall Miss Him." Selections were read by Mrs. Holden and Mrs. Cook. THE SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS.

Great enthusiasm was manifested among local Seventh-day Adventists when they learned of the unusual progress made by their denomination during the past year, as given in a report that has been received from the world's headquarters of the church in Washington, D. C. Extracts of this report, which was compiled by H. E. Rogers, statistical secretary of the denomination, have been sent broadcast throughout North America, in order that the believers might learn of the way their church has advanced.

One of the remarkable statements in the report is, that "The actual net gain in membership for the year 1914 was greater than the entire membership of the denomination throughout the world as it stood thirty years after this movement had begun its work."

The reports say further: "At the close of 1914, the total membership was 1,258,444, a gain during the year of 11,287, or 9.85 per cent. The gain for 1913 was 8,180, or 7.16 per cent., and that was the largest gain ever recorded up to that time. The gain for 1914 was greater than that reported for the preceding year by 3,107. The number of baptisms during the year was 14,999. The net difference between the gain of members and the number of baptisms is 3,712."

"The amount of money raised as offerings to foreign missions in the North American Division was $615,565.95, the membership in this division is 72,015. This amount is therefore an average of $8.55 for each member. The average of this last amount will be better understood when it is explained that the latest available reports indicate that for 1913 the average per capita contributions on the part of the members of all the Protestant bodies in the United States was 33 cents. The figures ranged from $1.93, the highest, for the Moravian bodies, to twenty-one cents per member for the lowest."

"For years the number of companies and their membership as well as the number of baptized scattered believers have been shown in the report, but in harmony with the vote taken at the last session of the General Conference, this information has been discontinued. The aggregate communication is typed out of the report would be approximately 15,000. That is to say, the plan of omitting the membership of companies and scattered believers accounts for the elimination of approximately 15,000 communicants from all reference in this report."

"The number of organized churches at the close of 1914 was 3,702, a gain during the year of 113, or 3.15 per cent. This work is now carried forward in 87 different countries, by a force of 15,000. The report was compiled as follows: ordained ministers, 926; licensed ministers, 565; licensed missionaries, 1,454; colporteurs, 2,076; secretaries, 292; total evangelistic laborers, 5,313."

"Other laborers are engaged in lines of work as follows: teachers in mission schools, primary schools, and colleges, 1,616; employed in publishing houses, 735; in sanitariums and treatment rooms, 1,696; a total of 4,947 institutional laborers. If to this be added the 5,313 evangelistic laborers, there is secured a grand total of 9,360 laborers engaged in all lines of denominational work, or one laborer for every thirteen members."

"The total funds contributed for evangelistic work by members of the denomination during 1914 were $3,090,484.80, a per capita of $24.56. This amount contributed is greater than the preceding year by $223,757.40, the per cent of increase being 7.30. Of the total amount contributed $2,237,757.40 was from North America, or 75.45 per cent, and all other countries, $781,732.92, or 24.65 per cent."

"The amounts raised for the three general classes of funds were as follows: Tithe, $1,813,548.92, or 58.84 per cent; foreign mission offerings, $775,248.99, or 24.99 per cent; home and local offerings, $499,800.33, or 16.17 per cent. The per capita for the membership in North America was $32.33, for all the members outside North America, $14.15, an average of $24.56."

"Work has been organized, there has been contributed for evangelistic work alone, $31,675,894.76. "At the close of 1914, the total valuation of the 1,444 churches of the denomination was $2,295,861.88, an increase of $177,750.37 for the year. Donations and investments during 1914 increased the net worth of the denominational institutions approximately $500,000. A further expenditure of $484,662.55 was made in the support of denominational educational institutions, so that the grand total contributions for evangelistic work, the increased valuation of church buildings and the support of, and investments in, denominational institutions during 1914 constituted a grand total of $4,461,202.86, an average of $38.45 for each church member throughout the world. For 1913 this average was $32.70, thus showing an increase of $2.75 per member for 1914."

ART OF MAKING PEOPLE UNCOMFORTABLE

"She's got a real gift, Hilda has," said the girl. "It's the way she can make you feel that you've done the wrong thing, even if she doesn't say a word."

Whether this quality be termed a "gift" or not, most of us have met people endowed as Hilda was. They are not given to candid criticism. That is not necessary. "Oh, you've used nutmeg in this pudding, haven't you?" says Amelia. That is all. She does not inform you that nutmeg is a spice to which she has a particular aversion, that the pudding is spoiled on that account, and that it was your business to have ascertained her taste before you took any liberty with the spice box. But somehow all this is implied in just such a hint of surprise in her comments.

The art of making people uncomfortable is capable of a remarkable degree of refinement. Some girls can accomplish it by a glance. A girl in a last year's suit, which she has fixed over her shoulders with regard to the mode can be made to feel conspicuously ill-dressed by a thoughtfully appraising glance from an acquaintance who possesses just the proper degree of skill. A little silence after a awkward speech on the part of some awkward youth may, if accompanied by the proper expression of shocked wonder, reduce the blunderer to a condition of most abject despair.

A gift of setting people at their ease is much less spectacular, and puts the timid at their ease, and diffuses the feeling that everything is about as it should be, works as silently as the sun shining. And yet it seems quite as valuable a gift as that other more showy one of making people uncomfortable, without calling in the aid of speech.

"TIME IS MONEY"

There are some time-honored proverbs, of which the above is a fair sample, whose meaning is obscure and which it might pay to examine more closely, with a view to finding, if possible, its real purport. It is, of course, useless to rely on the mere definition of the words "time" and "money" to help us, as it is at once evident that they are in no way synonymous, and we must therefore resort to some other means to effect an elucidation.

Perhaps what is needed is that we find some missing word or words which will complete the sentence and make sense of it. Suppose we try "Time is like money." Does this satisfy? How is time like money? The answer comes readily enough, that it is ours to spend both as we like, and whereas one person spends sparingly, another squanders both his moments and his money thoughtlessly and irretrievably. In this respect, that is, in the method of their use, we do find a decided similarity. But if the similarity ends here, our first attempt to supply the missing word has failed. It is not time that is like money, but the use of time which is sometimes comparable to the spending of money.

How will "Time saved is money made" do? This looks plausible enough, if it is assumed that all human endeavor is directed towards the making of money, but even then it is not immediately evident how economy in the use of moments will result in the saving of money. Some corollary is needed to explain what is meant by the economizing of time and how to do it. A man is really paid for his skill and capacity, and it is what he does with his time, not the mere spending of it, that counts. It may be true, in a limited sense, to say that what money buys requires time for its production, but something more than time is needed also, namely, knowledge and the power to apply it. It is clear that these latter have no fixed relation to time, or our success in the competition of the world would be proportionate to our age. In the famous case of Whistler vs. Ruskin, the judge remarked to the plaintiff, "The labor of two days, then, is that for which you ask 200 guineas!" And received the answer, "No; I ask it for the knowledge of a lifetime."

In this instance, time, as the vehicle of experience, is stated in terms of money, but there was that also in the work, the money equivalent of which no court of law could adequately determine. "Today is yesterday returned; returned full-power to cancel, expiate, raise, adorn and restate us on the rock of peace." In these powerful lines we find time purified of all monetary association, and here, at all events, the missing word is obvious: "Time is not money." Altogether this rendering seems to be nearer to the actual fact than the proverb itself.—Christian Science Monitor.

NEW ENGLAND ANIMAL FERTILIZERS

Are Effective. They give all-around satisfaction year after year. They are cheaper than home-mixed chemicals. They will contain more valuable plant food than ever in 1916 at no increase in cost.

New England Animal Fertilizers answer the essential requirements for crop production. Year after year they have demonstrated the superior quality of animal substances—BONE, BLOOD and MEAT—as a plant food of powerful productivity.

And now that the supply of potash has been cut off, we offer the same best fertilizers, tested and proven good without potash! Soils need organic food to keep them always rich and productive; New England Fertilizers furnish just that food!

"On May 21st I planted potatoes with New England Animal Fertilizer without potash. The yield was large, and I did not have so many small potatoes on this kind as on the others. While I firmly believe that potash is needed for potatoes, and a good large percentage of it, I am convinced that it will pay for a year or so to use New England Animal Fertilizers without potash."

TRAIN YOUR WEATHER.

Just as the west wind is your best friend in the matter of weather, bringing clear, cool days, so the east wind blows before a storm.

We have seen that the anticyclone is a great cone of cold air, moving across the country from the west and at the same time circulating like the hands of a clock, so that all over North America it produces a west wind. The phenomenon known as a cyclone, which brings the storms, is the exact opposite in every way. It is a mass of moist, warm air which usually forms somewhere in the West or Middle West. The dry, cold air which surrounds it, being heavier, rushes in around its base, squeezing it to a point and circulating round and round it. Thus the cyclone is an inverted cone of warm, moist air circulating in the opposite direction from the hands of a clock.

If you are going to understand the weather you must make no mistake about the size and action of these cyclones and anti-cyclones. A cyclone is usually oblong. It may extend from far into Canada to far out in the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Atlantic Coast to the Mississippi Valley. Therefore, as it revolves across the country, it brings east winds, and these east winds are laden with moisture. Also, because of the great difference of temperature between the anti-cyclone and the surrounding air, these winds are apt to develop great violence. So the cyclone is the precursor of almost everything undesirable in weather. The north-easters on the Atlantic coast that kick the surf up mountain high and wreck the boats, are almost invariably cyclones that originated somewhere in the Rocky Mountains, although you will have a hard time convincing the longshoreman that they do not come across the water. In Summer, when a long spell of hot, muggy weather settles upon the land, sapping your energy and ruining your disposition, it is due to the presence of a torpid, slow-moving cyclone. So that whenever the wind comes from the East, Winter or Summer, you may be sure the weather is going to change for the worse.

The Weather Bureau has been watching every storm that has crossed the United States for a great many years, and it has found that there is a regular cycle of these movements. Every year, about 110 storms cross the country, and about 103 of these are born in the West, while the other seven usually come from the Eastern States. Fifteen storms a year start in the West Gulf States, especially in Texas. Twelve originate in the Colorado Rockies. The Western Plateau States start about 10 storms every year. The Weather Bureau knows approximately the course that each of these will follow. For example, both the Gulf and the Colorado storms usually shoot across the country northeastward to the St. Lawrence Valley. That section gets about two storms a week, all in all. About the best thing you can say for the weather in the St. Lawrence valley is that it never lasts long.

For Poor Appetite and Weak Digestion

The man who can't eat doesn't feel much like working, and the man with a weak stomach doesn't get much pleasure out of eating. Your stomach is very important to your health, work and happiness. Don't abuse it, don't neglect it, and when, for one cause or another, your digestion goes wrong, and you lose appetite, be kind to your stomach. All it needs is a little rest, and a few days' doctoring with L. L. Atwood's Medicine. Very soon you will see the improvement in your appetite, and with the relish for food, comes the strength to digest it. For this old family remedy helps the stomach, bowels and liver, and gives good appetite and sound digestion.

Occasionally, any of these storms may deviate slightly from its usual path of the result will be a storm of some section where clear weather was predicted. It is these little deviations, impossible to foresee, which cause every man who left his umbrella at home to say unpleasant things about the Weather Bureau.

Occasionally, two cyclones will move across the country at the same time, and if they happen to run together, combining their moisture, a very heavy rain is the result. The brisk cyclone that brings a stiff east wind and driving rain or snow, is the least undesirable variety. It is the slow-moving cyclone, bringing moist, muggy weather, that is most to be dreaded. In the Winter it takes the form of fog, which rests upon the earth until the cold, heavy air of an anticyclone comes and pushes it away. In the Summer it is a heat wave, which usually lasts until it is relieved by a thunder storm.

As we have said, the surest indication of an approaching cyclone is a wind from the east. Just before it arrives, you will see a number of thin, wispy clouds high up in the air and moving rapidly south and west. They are what the scientists call cirrus and the sailors "mares' tails." These cirrus clouds are about the most reliable indication of the immediate approach of the storm within the observation of the amateur. They are caused by bits of vapor that fly off from the swirling cyclone and are caught and condensed by the cold prevailing westerlies above the equator to pole, and they carry the little clouds swiftly ahead of the storm, warning all that look upward.

There will usually be at least several hours between the first appearance of the cirrus and the beginning of the storm, and the larger storms are usually advertised at least one day and sometimes two days in advance by these ragged, fast-flying danger signals.

If a big storm is approaching, the day before it will usually be especially bright with soft air and a higher temperature than the day before. Cirrus will be thick in the sky by the middle of the afternoon, and the heavier, blacker, cirro stratus will begin to pile up in the west so that the sun goes down behind a smoky veil. Sometimes there is a marked halo about the sun, and then you may be almost sure that rain will fall within 24 or 36 hours; for long observation has shown that this sign is right about 93 times out of a hundred. If there is a moon on the night before a storm, the storm will be likely to have a halo, which is an almost equally good indication that rain is coming within 36 hours. If you bet on the halo about the moon regularly you will win about 87 times out of a hundred. As the storm draws closer and closer, you must be more and more watchful if you would prophesy its movements and regulate your own accordingly.

The great black clouds that pile up in the summer sky are not dangerous to themselves. A grey patch known as the nimbus, which is always behind the rain, don't let the big black clouds bluff you out, but when the grey nimbus over-spreads the sky, it is time to seek shelter. In Winter, if it is going to snow, the sky will be an absolutely uniform grey without a seam or a crack. From that sort of a sky you are sure to get snow. But if there is any flaw in its perfect roof, the storm will take its form. A rain no matter how cold is.

From this it will be seen that the cirrus clouds are the most reliable indication of when the storm will arrive, after the east wind has announced its approach. A few scattering cirri are not very significant, but if the procession grows rather than diminishes the chance of a storm is right on. If a storm is approaching, sometimes the cirri are fore-runners of a storm which is passing north or south of you, in which case you can usually see that the center of cloudiness is far away and that you are not threatened.

If the cirri have foretold aright, they will gather to form a cirro stratus. This is the fine, feathery sort of cloud that covers the sky as though with cotton batting combed out thin. Sometimes the cirrus will develop into what the sailors call a "mackerel sky" in which the lights and shades of the clouds resemble the scales of a fish. Either of these skies generally indicates an increasing moisture and a rapid approach of the storm. Occasionally, however, a mackerel sky is an indication that the moisture is drying up. In this case the little clouds will quickly begin to shrink. After cirro stratus, or mackerel sky, the clouds rapidly thicken and turn grey until the first flakes of snow or drops of rain begin to fall.

These, then, are the storm signals that you can read for yourself and rely upon. First, an east wind; then cirrus clouds speeding westward; then warmer weather, or perhaps the sun will have about it a similar decoration. If all or most of these signs occur, you may safely count on stormy weather.—Express.

LIKED TO BE HIT.

I wish you could all have heard our pastor's sermon. It was no petty sins, but the same. From the word "watch" he gave us an acoustic:

W, was watch your words; A, your actions; T, your thoughts; O, your company; H, your hearts. Now can you agree that he would say on all those things?

One of my besetting things is that I do not watch my words carefully. I speak first and think afterwards. Again, my actions are not always becoming for one of my mature years and often times a poor example for my children, consequently, when they err, I cannot censure them as I might if I were better behaved myself. Then my thoughts I cannot control as I would. I get discouraged and blue and am often envious and very often ugly, so you can see how he hit me. The company question did not apply to me, for I always like only good company, and prefer those I think better and smarter than myself, for of those I can learn, and as he truly said, poor companions contaminate. About hearts, that is a puzzle. I do not know how near right mine is. I think at heart I am pretty good, but if people judge me by my words and actions and knew my thoughts at times, I think I would be found minus.

Now I am wondering if there were any one else who got as many hard hits as I did. I liked it just the same. It is something to think of this coming week, and let us hope his sermon will make next week a kinder, more thoughtful and better week for our community.

TEACH YOUR CHILD TO CONSIDER OTHERS.

"If I had a child to raise," began the elderly schoolma'am, "I think the first thing I should start to teach it would be consideration for the feelings of others. Then, when I grew older, I should hope to escape some of the cruelties that I have seen many children visit upon their parents."

"Consideration for others includes self-control, a trait that is sadly lacking in the average child. Most of the unhappiness we see about us, the injustice and the cruelties, finally believe are due to the fact that parents do not begin early enough to train their babies that other folks are just as important as their own."

"The other evening I witnessed a home scene that made my heart ache. I heard in a family where there was a spoiled daughter. This daughter was about to give a party. She ordered her mother to make the sort of refreshments she wanted. One thing was to be chocolate cake, of which the girl was very fond."

"The mother worked hard baking for one whole day. The cake she wished to be extra good and she added a little almond flavor, which, she thought, made it more delicious. That evening, at dinner, very happy over the success of her baking, she laid a little piece of the chocolate cake on the girl's plate."

"Just a taste for you dearie," said the mother. "The rest is for the party."

"The girl took a bite, then flung the cake angrily down on the table."

"Didn't I say chocolate cake?" she snapped. "When I say chocolate I mean chocolate. You've put something else in it and spoiled it."

"The mother's eyes filled with tears. She was too hurt to speak. And I—I just couldn't stand it. I went out of the room."

"I've seen so much of this lack of consideration for others' feelings at Christmas time that I remember one little boy who didn't get just exactly the kind of skates he wanted. He paid no attention to the other presents his family had lovingly prepared for him. He had eyes only for the skates and when he saw they were not the kind he wanted, he flung them at the lighted Christmas tree and went into a passion. He not only spoiled his own Christmas Day, but more than spoiled it for his parents."

Last year I visited in a relative's family during the holidays. On Christmas morning we opened our presents. The daughter of the family—a girl of 17—greedily tore open her packages, unappreciating the care that had been taken to tie them daintily and prettily, and tossed one thing after the other away with some gibing remark. I saw gifts that dotting relatives had spent much time and thought upon, but she cared nothing for the love that came with these little home-made presents. A single gold vanity bag was the only gift she cared about, and she did not even take the pains to discover the senders. In her haste to discover what she had 'got' the cards of the givers were mixed or lost."

THE INSPECTOR CAME.

There was an article in the Rockland Courier-Gazette a few weeks ago, which Editor Fuller described a visit made that office by the inspector of an accident insurance company and the dangers, before unknown, which he revealed.

We thought at the time that Brother Fuller was only indulging in his wacky humor, but when an inspector visited the Observer office we found that his humor had merely softened the situation; that we, like him had been beset with danger and knew it not. Both master workmen and entered apprentices had worked on the cylinder press many years without harm, but in the eyes of the inspector it developed jaws like an alligator that could take off feet; and the job presses were less dangerous only as they are less likely to be used. For ten years we had looked upon the basement as a sort of peaceful dell, but to the inspector it was a jungle filled with dangers which must be muzzled and caged.

We cannot recall an accident of any importance in the office during 25 years, but now that the requirements of the inspector have been met, their value is apparent.

Thirty-one states now have laws for the compensation of workmen for injuries received in the course of employment. These laws are undoubtedly good, and yet it is a question if very many of the legislators who voted for them had any idea of their scope.

Take, for instance, the Maine law. How many men who voted for it had any well defined idea of what they were doing? They doubtless had in mind the railroads of the State, the Great Northern Paper Co., the Hollingsworth & Whitney Co., the Great Western Woodmen Co., and a few other corporations, but did they realize that the act also included the academies that employ five or more teachers, the water district that has firemen under pay, the bank that pays its directors over five dollars a year; in fact every institution that has so many as five persons under even nominal pay?

We are reminded by this of a legislative hearing that we attended a few years ago. Before the matter in which we were interested came on, a representative of a labor union appeared in behalf of an employers' liability act. We do not recall the details, only that one section made the employer liable for an injury to an employee, resulting from the carelessness of a fellow workman, the representative of the labor union, could be held for damages. The advocate of the measure seemed to lose interest in it after that had been brought to his attention and we heard no more from it.

We see from this that the law-makers of a state of nation should follow a part of David Crockett's motto, "be sure you are right," and if sure of that, the remainder, "then go ahead."—Piscataquis Observer.

WHY THEY WIN

The most valuable crops are those which are treated with the best fertilizers, and the best fertilizers are those which contain nature's food.

Lowell Animal Fertilizers are made of BONE, BLOOD, MEAT and high grade chemicals. They make your soil rich and productive in nature's own way. And they are always active, continually feeding the crop with nutrition enough to keep the soil rich and productive.

The war out of the supply of potash. We immediately conducted extensive experiments through New England with specially prepared formulas, which produced abundant crops.

"The Maine Experiment Station tried out fertilizers—some with and some without potash. The result proved that the yield of potatoes without potash was far more profitable. And the potatoes did not suffer from lack of potash."

Diseases of Children

I find worms one of the most common of children's diseases—either pinworms or roundworms. These parasites make their presence felt through deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry little red worms coming out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

For over 60 years Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, my father's discovery, has been the standard remedy for worms, stomach disorders and constipation, both for children and adults. Mr. Wm. L. Wyllie of Houston, Texas, writes: "I want to say that Dr. True's Elixir is certainly a fine medicine." At all dealers, 85c, 50c, and $1.00. Advice free. Write 42-5

George S. Pitts.
After an illness of about six months, George S. Pitts passed away Thursday evening, February 17th, of cancer, at his home on Daves Hill. Mr. Pitts was born in Harrison, sixty-five years ago the twenty-second of last June, and has lived in this town practically all of his life, excepting a few years spent in Bangor.

He was the son of Samuel and Calista Pitts of South Harrison and leaves two brothers, Silas and Jose Pitts, also of this town.

By his academic training in early life he became fitted for the profession of teaching, which he exemplified in a successful career in the public schools of Harrison and neighboring town. He also served his home town acceptably in the board of selectmen, superintendent of schools, collector of taxes, town agent, and minor offices, for the past two and one-half years. He has been the village post master, until recently. He was obliged to resign on account of ill health.

He was twice married, his first wife being Eliza Sampson of this town, who passed to the higher life March 1, 1902, leaving three daughters and one son. Later Mr. Pitts married Mrs. Ada Tibbitts Gilman of Denmark, who survives him, with two daughters and two sons.

NORTH BRIDGTON.Burned to Death.

On Friday morning February 11, about 9 a. m., Mrs. Elizabeth Rodcliff Bennett an aged lady, who has boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee Brown for the past year and a half, set fire to her clothing while heating a porous plaster to apply to her back, which had been troubling her for a few days and was burned so that she lived but a few hours, passing away at 10 p. m. of the same day.

She wore a flannellette wrapper and the flames from the plaster quickly spread to her dress and other clothing, and as she was alone in her room upstairs no one knew of her condition until she came down stairs into the sitting room entirely enveloped in flames.

Mrs. Brown quickly wrapped her in a heavy blanket which laid near and screamed for help. L. N. Howard's family who lives just across the road heard their cry and quickly went to their assistance. The flames were soon extinguished.

Dr. Sylvester of Harrison was hastily summoned who dressed her wounds and she was made as comfortable as possible until death relieved her sufferings.

Mrs. Bennett was loved and respected by all who knew her. She had been tenderly cared for for the past year and a half by Mrs. Brown and her mother, Mrs. Martha Wight, they doing everything in their power for her comfort and almost her last words were "how good they have been to me." From Daniel Webster's Oration at Fryeburg.

On July 4, 1810, Daniel Webster, at the close of an oration delivered at Fryeburg, Me., said:

"A true patriot, with his eye and his heart on the honor and happiness of his country hath an elevation of soul that lifts him above ordinary men."

His country enjoys peace, he rejoices and is thankful; and if it be in the council of Heaven to send the storm and tempest his bosom proudly swells against the rage that assails it. Above fear, above danger, he feels that the last end which can happen to any man, never comes too soon if it falls in defense of his country.

Easter Late this Year.

Easter will be late this year. The date is April 23, which is within two days of the latest date possible for the observance of the festival under the system of reckoning fixed by the council of Nice. This council decreed that Easter should be observed on the first Sunday after the full moon that occurs after the vernal equinox.

March 21. In 1915 the date of Easter was April 4. The Lenten season in 1915 began Feb. 17, and this year it will begin March 8. The last time that Easter was as late as April 23, was in 1905.

Show-Window. Telephone Secures Many Orders.

To secure a better hold on passers-by who display a casual interest in the window displays, an eastern store has put upon an unusual plan which is at present being tried out. The goods are displayed in the window in the usual manner, and at one side sits a clerk at a desk. Outside on the walk, at the edge of the window frame a telephone is installed, which communicates directly with the clerk. Any information the passer-by may want on the goods displayed is cheerfully furnished, and the clerk booked if he so desires. From the March Popular Mechanics Magazine.

BRIGHTENS LIFE.

What is a fat account or hundreds of acres of productive land when one sees the dead hopes and sad life of our children, or the dreary days of the ever-sacrificing mother, married possibly in early youth, who takes it with you when you die. You can't take it with you when you die. An automobile makes life worth living. It gives us pleasure to go to church, Sunday School, and evening services. It makes our young boys and girls love to farm when, with pride, we can step into our automobile. It is next to a real home for our young folks. We all can take pleasure in the evening ride after a day of labor, while our faithful servants, the horses, can rest and eat. We would like one moment of going if we had to drive a tired team.

When we think how fast we grow old and how short life's span is at the very best, we see but little real pleasure outside the home. Let's make it the dearest spot on earth. Get the automobile if there is any available chance.

BETHEL.

Hastings-Richardson.

Hon. Henry H. Hastings and Ethel M. Richardson were quietly married in Portland on Wednesday, February 16, by Rev. Charles Harbutt.

Mr. Hastings is one of the leading lawyers of Oxford County and is well known throughout the State, having been a member of both houses of the Legislature and is at present secretary of the State Republican Committee. He has always taken an active interest in town affairs, serving as superintendent of schools for many years and later as a member of the school board.

Mr. and Mrs. Hastings will make their home in Mayville in the Rev. David Garland house which Mr. Hastings has recently purchased and renovated.

Twenty below zero here last Sunday morning and a blizzard wind of the day before drove the cold into the houses and churches so that it was difficult to find a comfortable place anywhere.

The snow had drifted in places in the roads making traveling tiresome for the horses and a test of patience for those who rode.

Rev. Mr. Little was called to West Bethel, Sunday afternoon to attend the funeral of William H. Riley, a veteran of the Civil war, who died the 18th, age 84.

The funeral of Mrs. Jane Coolidge occurred this Wednesday at 10 a. m. at the home of her grandson on Kimball Hill, attended by Rev. J. H. Little.

Two very able addresses were delivered at the home of the young men's club. Both were of great practical local value and ought to have been heard by every citizen. One was on our public schools; their condition and needs by our superintendent of schools. It was a plain practical statement of facts. The other was on the need of securing some kind of industry in Bethel which will give employment to our young men and young ladies, when they have to begin to earn their own living, without having to leave home and go to some other city or town where there is opportunity for them to use talents. The lack of such home industries will, in a few years, when the old residents die, leave the town destitute of able men and women qualified to maintain even the present standard of business and citizenship.

Muriel Park celebrated her 19th birthday, February 18th by entertaining a party of fourteen young ladies of the Round Table club and the young men's class in Sunday school. A sleigh ride of two hours was followed by a lunch of oyster stew, cake and ice cream at her home. An appropriate poem was contributed by Mrs. Addie Kendall Mason.

Favorable reports are received from Miss Alice Kimball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Kimball, who is ill in a Dorchester, Mass. hospital.

A Francis Willard Memorial union service will be held at the Congregational church, Sunday evening, Feb. 27.

Mrs. Orlando J. Cross who has been very sick since the death of her husband, February 12, is more comfortable. Her daughter, Mrs. Fred Shaw, who has been caring for her, is now ill at her mother's home. A brother, Arthur Cross, also is ill.

E. Springer and daughter, Florence have been enjoying a trip to Boston and New York.

Robert Howe, for many years a resident of Bethel, died at Island Pond, Vt., February 17. He was born on Howe Hill, Greenwood, the son of the late Ira and Deborah (Morgan) Howe. Mr. Howe enlisted in the army, June 26, 1861 and served in many important engagements, Cold Harbor, Chancellorsville, Spotsylvania, Gettysburg and Antietam. In 1865 he married Ellen Collin who died many years ago, and five daughters survive him: Mrs. Anna Damon, Island Pond, Vt.; Mrs. Grace Foley, Bethel; Mrs. Mary Lennell, Hallowell; Mrs. Maud Symonds, Los Angeles, Cal.; and Mrs. Lucinda Howe, Greenwood. His death from heart failure came suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Damon. He had been in failing health for some time.

Little Walston Andrews had a birthday party Saturday the 19th. There were a number present. After two hours of amusement, refreshments were served and the little ones returned to their homes. Walston received a number of presents.

BRYANT'S POND.

Farm Buildings Burned.

One of the worst fires that Woodstock has known for years took place late Friday afternoon, when the farm buildings of Lendall B. Yates were entirely destroyed. The fire apparently started in the barn and so rapidly did the flames spread it was impossible to save anything there. Mr. Yates had finished taking off a load of straw which he had just hauled from the Geo. Emmons barn and had been in the house only a short time when smoke was seen sweeping over the buildings. Mrs. Yates rushed to the barn, but the fire up was completely filled with smoke and flame so that it was impossible to enter. Sixteen head of cattle, two horses, hogs, hens, twelve ton of hay, wagons, farming implements and everything except a few household goods were completely destroyed. Only the nearest neighbors were able to get there in time to be of any assistance, although help from here, from Greenwood and West Paris arrived in a remarkably short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Yates moved to this town from Greenwood about three years ago and since coming here have made many friends who deeply sympathize with them in their great loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Dime Whitman, who were working for Mr. Yates and lived in a little camp on the other side of the road opposite the buildings, were also heavy losers by the fire, as the greater part of their household goods, none of which were saved, were stored in the Yates buildings.

These buildings were among the oldest in Woodstock and were among the landmarks on the main road over the hills to West Paris, situated about half way between the two villages. The place for years was owned by the town and was sold not many years ago to J. E. Hathaway, who put the buildings in excellent repair besides making many improvements and it was of him that Mr. Yates purchased the farm. Within practically a year's time four sets of farm buildings within the limits of this town have burned and only one has been rebuilt. It is a hard blow to our town to lose so much property by fire and it is sincerely hoped that our share of such trouble may be over for a few years at least.

The fire occurred between three and four o'clock Friday afternoon. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The barn, shed and house were all connected. The loss is rising $400 and the insurance amounted to $2000.

For the present, the family will stay at the home of George Emmons in Greenwood.

The event of the season is coming soon. The seventh annual military drill, concert and ball, given by Mr. Christopher Co., No. 41, U. R. K. of P., will be held at the Opera House, Friday evening, March 3rd. Chandler's orchestra of Lewiston, former the Ariel, will furnish music. The officers for the evening will be Capt. Thomas W. Gordon, hall director, and Captains, Freeman M. Morse, Clarence E. Cole and Fred M. Cole will act as aids. In addition to the regular company drill, and as a special feature, there will be a drill by a company of boys, who are now training under the instruction of Capt. Morse.

Leslie McIntire to Lecture at Farmers' Week.

Mr. McIntire has demonstrated beyond question the feasibility of doubling the yield of grass per acre on the average farm, and his story of "how to do it" will undoubtedly prove a valuable addition to the Farmers' Week program.

It is the aim of the College authorities to secure for Farmers' Week each year the assistance of successful farmers as well as teachers of agricultural subjects. Those who are planning to attend Farmers' Week this year are to be congratulated on the opportunity they will have of listening to Mr. McIntire on this important subject. The complete Farmers' Week program will be sent on application to the College of Agriculture, Orono.

The Hebron academy track team, which won the Bowdoin interscholastic meet last week at Brunswick, over the Huntington team of Massachusetts, by one point only, will be represented in the Boston Athletic association meet next Saturday.

Entertains Barton Club.
Mrs. Eugene N. Swett entertained the Barton Reading Club, the afternoon of February 17 at her home. Eighteen members and two visitors were present, Helen M. Staples of Hanover and Mrs. R. J. Bruce.

After the club had disposed of business matters, Mrs. Swett surprised her guests by ringing a bell and announcing "school was to come to order." Each member was then required to recite some humorous anecdote, after which the class was tested with conundrums. Having satisfied the teacher in these studies, the scholars were next rewarded with a "Trip to an Art Gallery." This was an occasion of great delight as the hostess had improvised a "gallery" productive of much mirth.

After "recess" the teacher further endeavored herself to her pupils by ushering them to the dining-room, where the table was patriotically decorated with flags and hatchets in anticipation of Washington's Birthday. Ice-cream and cake were served and then school reconvened for an old-fashioned "spelling bee." The afternoon was voted to be one of the most enjoyable the club has spent.

GETTING AN EDUCATION.

After the Age of Thirty is the Time to Start in Earnest.

According to the Saturday Evening Post, the best time to get an education is perhaps the only time in any time after one has passed thirty. The stuff that one learns before twenty is not meant to be remembered. It is only a placing of the dutes and an arrangement of the bins for the permanent contents.

From twenty to thirty one is all torn up with courting, marrying and getting a foothold in life. After that is the time for education—from then on until death or senile debility.

A man or woman past thirty is exactly at the most favorable period for mastering knowledge, training the mind, forming the taste. Some systematic effort is all that is necessary. Notice the silly and tiresome ways in which enormous numbers of people spend some of their lives. They know what to do with their working hours, but not with their leisure.

Most of them by a little direction and a little systematic effort might develop some special interest. Boys quickly tire of mere aimless and needless play. Naturally they want a method and a goal in life. Having a goal is exactly what gives zest to the game.

And having a goal is both easy and delightful. To study anything with interest, from logarithms to catarrhals, gives one fun and profit at the same time. Try it.

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headache, nervousness, dizziness, sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutrient gets into the blood and the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from all
